

MORAN ENVIRONMENTAL RECOVERY PANDEMIC RESPONSE CAPABILITIES

Health and Safety Guide MER's Strategy to Provide Critical Service to our Clients

Throughout the COVID-19 Pandemic, MER crews have been called upon to provide COVID-19 decontamination services to our clients, demonstrating our experience and expertise in responding to emergencies. We have performed both proactive facility cleaning and reactive disinfection services, as well as developed custom training programs for business to engage their workforce in cleaning and sanitization of their facilities and vessels in line with regulatory guidelines. We have adapted our service offerings to include expanded services, such as conducting temperature checks for personnel reporting for work at our clients' maritime and power generation sites.

MER is proud to be a critical, essential response organization and to serve on the front lines to help mitigate the potential spread of COVID-19. Our Health and Safety Team continues to closely monitor the CDC, OSHA, and other US regulatory agencies to maintain current COVID-19 related safety and training protocols to protect our clients and our employees. MER has fully trained HAZMAT teams in all of our operational regions and has the required assets and capabilities to respond to suspected or confirmed COVID-19 contamination incidents. ### Our Philosophy

MER believes that proper education, preparation, and execution of safe HAZMAT and infectious disease response procedures will help ensure the safety of our employees, the employees of our clients, and the general public. Additionally, our continuous efforts to ensure our program and employees stay current with the rapidly evolving requirements of this issue will enable MER to serve as a prepared and informed resource in the event of a COVID-19 related incident.

With MER, you will receive a custom consultation to review your program and provide guidance on necessary initiatives to protect the health and well-being of your employees and customers.
